

IN THE UNITED STATES COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF UTAH
NORTHERN DIVISION

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Plaintiff,

vs.

DAVID FINK,
Defendant.

MEMORANDUM DECISION AND ORDER DENYING DEFENDANT'S
MOTION TO ALTER JUDGMENT
WITHOUT PREJUDICE TO ITS
REFILING AS A § 2241 PETITION

Case No. 2:03-CR-933 TS

Defendant is serving a 41-month federal sentence. By his Motion to Alter Judgment, Defendant challenges the manner in which the Bureau of Prisons has calculated his credit for prior time served.

The Court having considered Defendant's Motion finds that it should have been filed as a Petition under 28 U.S.C. § 2241, because it primarily alleges violations of due process in the execution of the court-imposed sentence—specifically the Bureau of Prison's calculation of his credit for time served.¹ Section 2241(a) provides that a ¹See McIntosh v. United States Parole Comm'n, 115 F.3d 809, 811 (10th Cir. 1997) ("Petitions under § 2241 are used to attack the execution of a sentence, . . . in contrast to § 2254 habeas and § 2255 proceedings, which are used to collaterally

“[w]rit[] of habeas corpus may be granted by [one of the federal courts] within their respective jurisdictions.” Defendant is confined in Arizona. The Tenth Circuit has clarified that “. . . a petition under 28 U.S.C. § 2241 attacks the execution of a sentence rather than its validity and must be filed in the district where the prisoner is confined.”² The statute further provides that, if a petition is brought outside of the jurisdiction “wherein the restraint complained of is had,” the Court “may transfer the application for hearing and determination to the district court having jurisdiction to entertain it.” 28 U.S.C. § 2241(b).

In this case, Defendant has filed his request by Motion, rather than by a Petition addressed to the district court in the jurisdiction where he is confined. Because it was filed as a Motion rather than a Petition, Defendant has not paid the filing fee necessary to file such a Petition, nor has he moved to proceed with a 2241 petition in forma pauperis, and, therefore, there is no Petition to transfer. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that Defendant’s Motion to Alter Judgment (Docket No. 901) is DENIED WITHOUT PREJUDICE to its refiling as a Petition under U.S.C. § 2241 in the federal district court in the district where he is currently confined.
